FROM MYTH TO RELIGION - AND BACK AGAIN?
CASSIRER, PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION, AND THEOLOGY
The Fourth Ernst Cassirer Summer School
Helsinki 25–27 August, 2008

The return of mythical consciousness remains a challenge for cultural theory and for any attempt to understand the ‘human condition’. It also implies important questions for philosophy and systematic theology. In Cassirer’s view, religion fosters man’s self-liberation from the mythical. Nonetheless, it still uses the images, signs and symbols which originally belonged to mythical consciousness, but which now are transformed and changed in a significant way. Thus, the step from myth to religion and back again is significant for the entire process of symbolic formation.

The Ernst Cassirer Summer School forms part of the Ernst Cassirer professorship, funded by the Volkswagen Foundation and located at Swedish Collegium for Advanced Study (SCAS) in Uppsala. The current holder of the chair, Professor Michael Moxter, SCAS and the Helsinki Collegium for Advanced Studies together organize the Summer School on August 25–27 in Helsinki.

One of the main reasons for the institutionalization of the Ernst Cassirer professorship is the intention to intensify the scientific cooperation between Germany and the Scandinavian Countries. The Summer School will bring together outstanding young scholars (doctoral and postdoctoral) from Scandinavia and Germany.

Welcome to Helsinki and the 2008 Summer School.

Barbro Klein, Michael Moxter, Juha Sihvola and Björn Wittrock
